Dear Administrator Lisa Jackson,

The Chesapeake Bay is not in its best condition, and I believe the Clean Water Act standards should be enforced. The bay should be kept healthy, clean, and able to act as a stable ecosystem. Virginia should do its part, and participate in cleaning up the bay.

I believe the EPA should improve pollution standards; pollution is bad!! C: Simple things like discourage dumping into storm drains, or using too much fertilizer on people's lawns help. Pollution discharge permits should be rewritten or denied.. Again: pollution is mean! Not good!

I think that Virginia should help clean up the Chesapeake Bay, at least a little bit. Please use the Environmental Protection Agency to help clean the Bay.

Sincerely,

~Charlotte Siewick
